TO BE SENTENCED AT YUMA.
Orin Standage, who resides west of town, will be united in marriage tomorrow to Miss Nellie White, of Yuma. The young couple will immediately return to Mesa, where they will be given a reception at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. C. F. Standage. Mr. Standage is one of the well and favorably known young men of this section of the valley. Mr. and Mrs. Standage will make their home on the Standage ranch, which the groom has recently fitted up. The many friends of the happy young couple will join in wishing them an abundance of happiness, and with just enough clouds to make them appreciate the sunshine the more.

INVESTIGATING LOCAL
INDIAN CONDITIONSJ. W. LaBlance, a Full-Blooded Sioux, Learns More of His Brothers.

Tall, muscular, with the unmistakable carriage of the northern Indian, J. W. LaBlance, a full-blooded Sioux, a graduate of the Portland college and a student of the famous Carlisle, is in Mesa for the purpose of investigating the conditions of the Indians located on the different reservations in Maricopa county. Polished by years in school and by coming up against the traveling public, LaBlance is yet every inch an Indian, and he is proud of it. He speaks nine of the Indian languages and, while he has had the advantage of the best of teachers, he confesses that every dialect has come with a great effort, for it is hard for a Sioux to master another Indian tongue. LaBlance is in the employ of the government, and after carefully investigating the conditions of the local Indian reservations, he will make his report, which will be forwarded to the department of Indian affairs at Washington. Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, who is himself a quarter-blooded Indian, is at the head of Indian affairs. Mr. LaBlance will remain in the vicinity of Mesa four days.

JUAN GONZALES FAITHFUL.
Juan Gonzales, the sheep-herder who gave himself up to the officials, saying that he had seriously injured a fellow herder, twenty-five miles out east of Mesa, was released on his own recognizance on account of there being no complaint and no information to the effect that a crime had been committed. However, Gonzales wants to be sure that Justice Irwin does not overlook the case, and he presented himself yesterday to learn if any evidence had been brought in against him.

NEW TELEPHONE LINES.
Several ranchers southeast of town have built a private telephone line and have connected it up with the local Consolidated Exchange. The line will be working by tonight and it will be possible to call up those parties at their country homes. Those interested in the project are: Charles Peterson, Geo. Peterson, D. S. Lewis, L. R. Lewis and George Lewis. The line will connect up with the town exchange at the Warner Allen line.

THE PUBLIC FAVORS LOCAL SUMMER RESORT

PLAN ON FOOT TO BUILD MOUNTAIN ROAD TO COOLNESS.

The Reavis Ranch a Favored Spot—
The Reason is Obvious.

Frank Pomeroy and J. G. Spangler have been appointed as a committee by the chamber of commerce to raise $200 for the purpose of surveying a road from a point on the Mesa-Roosevelt road to the Reavis ranch, which is in the mountains, about twelve miles from Fish Creek station. The object of the road is to reach the proposed site for a summer resort.

The proposition, in a nutshell, is this: A tract of land will be taken up as a government entry, and then subdivided with tracts of different sizes and at different prices. The real object of the sale of the lots will be for the purpose of building a roadway, which will cost, approximately, $10,000. The proceeds from the sale of the lots are to be used in the building up of the resort and making it more habitable. The gentlemen in charge of the subscription will request a dollar from each citizen, or, in other words, will keep asking until they have the list of 200 made up.

The reasons for a summer resort are obvious. It will be possible to leave Mesa with a daily average temperature of 110, and in one day's time reach a temperature of 80, with an abundance of mountain water and scenery said to approach that of the Grand canyon. It is obvious, from a financial standpoint, that those who have not the money to go to the coast, will be accommodated; while those who do have the money, will be given a chance to spend their money closer in. Mesa will be the distributing point. The entire south side will be the beneficiary.

NEWS NOTES.

J. McCormick, interested in the Payson Gold Mining company, was a passenger to Payson yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips and son, Howard, after a visit with Mr. Howard's niece, Mrs. J. E. Drane, Jr., have gone to Los Angeles.

The ranches under the Highland canal are elated from the fact that a head of water is coming down the old course. It has been several years since the ditch has been watered from the Salt river.

Rev. Mr. Maddox is getting out a small paper to be known as the Baptist Projectile. It will carry considerable advertising, as well as news of interest to the Baptist, as well as other denominations throughout the valley.

Rosel Cowley and L. F. Dana, of the Mesa Land company, were Phoenix business visitors yesterday.

The condition of Mrs. E. A. Sprague is reported as considerably improved.

The three-room house of Joe Rhoden is about ready for the finishers.

R. W. Lescher, engineer, with Thornton Pitzhugh, was a Mesa visitor in connection with the Chandler building.

J. D. McCormick, who has been in Roosevelt for the past few days, has returned.

Mrs. P. B. Hughes is in the city from the Gila Crossing, and will remain a few days.

LAISON'S DRUG CO.
No city has a happier name than Igouan—the "Iguazus." When visited by the traveler Chardin in the early part of the eighteenth century, it contained 172 mosques, 48 colleges, 1,800 caravansaries and 272 public baths. But the Afghans, the local vandals, who did not care for bathing, destroyed the aqueducts and slaughtered the bathers. In the matter of great public squares, Igouan can easily out rival any European city. The Maydan, or great square, is a third of a mile in length and about half that breadth. It was once encircled by a canal bordered by fine plane trees, but these have long since vanished along with the canal.

"Obligated the Corpse."
An empty coffin rested on a truck on the Atchison depot platform one day this week. Out of mischief one of the employees in the baggage room crawled into the coffin box and drew the lid down. No sooner was he concealed than a young colored man with a jaunty swagger and a useful whistle came along and wishing to rest settled comfortably on the casket. He fell asleep and was awakened by a distressing moan. The moan was repeated, and then somebody said: "Oh-o! Please get off my dead body." The negro granted the request at once. With a blood-curdling yell he leaped into the air and sped away. He attempted to cross the bridge but Cy Smith, fearing that in his frenzy he would leap into the water depth below, blocked the way. Unable to cross the river, the colored man sprinted to the railroad yards, and when last seen was passing the coal mine and still going south.—Kansas City Star.
